“Fiscal 2026 presented both opportunities and challenges,” said Martin Shen, CEO of FingerMotion, “as we continued investing in our business while responding to changes in operating conditions. Our priority remains strengthening our core telecommunications operations while continuing to develop our marketplace platforms, data analytics capabilities, and technology initiatives in a disciplined manner. We remain focused on improving operational efficiency, strengthening execution across our businesses, and allocating capital carefully. While China continues to be an important market for the Company, we are also evaluating opportunities in selected international markets as part of our strategy to broaden our business footprint and diversify future growth opportunities. Our objective is to continue building a stronger and more diversified business portfolio while creating long-term value for our shareholders.”

During fiscal 2026, transaction activity in the Company’s core telecommunications business declined, which contributed to lower revenue and gross profit for the year. At the same time, management continued to reduce operating expenses and selectively support commercialization and development efforts across its Marketplace Platform, Sapientus, and C2 initiatives.

General and administrative expenses decreased by $1,396,351 or 22% during the year which was primarily attributable to lower salaries and wages, traveling, entertainment, accounting, consulting, and other miscellaneous expenses. Marketing costs decreased $193,061 or 70% resulting from reduced marketing and promotional activities due to cost controls and lower levels of liquidity. Research and development expenses decreased by $220,842 or 35% due to decreased personnel-related costs.

A copy of the news release is attached as Exhibit 99.1 hereto.

The information in this Item 7.01 (including Exhibit 99.1) shall not be deemed “filed” for purposes of Section 18 of the Exchange Act, or otherwise subject to the liabilities of that section, nor shall it be deemed incorporated by reference in any filing under the Securities Act, or the Exchange Act, except as expressly set forth by specific reference in such a filing.
